TV GUIDE

VIRGINIA BLACKBURN ...TV AT THE WEEKEND

RUSSELL T Davies, the man responsible for the glorious new incarnation of DOCTOR WHO (BBC1), has much else to be responsible for – namely, ruining every Saturday night on which there's no Doctor Who. But this weekend, at long last, the wait was over: the Doctor and his new companion, Martha Jones, were back in a gloriously bonkers plot in which a hospital was transported to the moon, lock, stock and full quota of doctors and patients. That something strange was about to happen was conveyed in a splendid fragment of dialogue: "The rain!" "Why is everyone fussing about the rain?" "It's going up."
There were concerns during the last series that Doctor Who was going off the boil. Not on this showing, it wasn't. Scarcely had the inmates of the hospital worked out that the view from their windows was not quite what they were used to, than troops of Judoons – creatures with the body of a man and the head of a rhinoceros – were storming through the place.

Straw
Actually, only one Judoon took off his helmet – perhaps the BBC props budget didn't run to creating more than one rhino head. It quickly transpired, however, that they were not the villains of the piece, rather they were seeking a non-human who happened to be sheltering in the hospital. And given that the Doctor was in situ, he felt it a good idea to keep out of their way. The real villain was, needless to say, a rather sweet-looking, little old lady, with a nasty propensity for drinking other people's blood. Advancing menacingly upon a hapless hospital consultant, she brandished a small object.

"I've brought my own straw," she said. It is a measure of quite how well Freema Agyeman has stepped into the shoes of the Doctor's assistant that Billie Piper wasn't missed for a second, and this lady, as a trainee doctor herself, might bring a few practical benefits to the role.
If you can keep your head while all about you are losing theirs – then you'll be a Doctor's assistant, indeed.

SIZZLING: Choose Life T-shirt, £45, by Katherine Hamnett at Urban Outfitters (020 7907 0800)

■ by CLARE TAYLOR
GETTING the message across has never been so simple.
That's right, slogan T-shirts are back. Fashionistas across the nation have been quick to pick up on the renaissance of this hot Eighties trend.
The revival comes as the original creator of the slogan T-shirt, Katharine Hamnett, 59, re-issues a back catalogue of her most memorable protest tees.
From the famous Choose Life, to Clean Up Or Die, or Bring Back God, all are newly available for shouty fashion forward types.
The High Street has taken a less political approach to the trend and the message here is more fun and flirty.
Back in those days, celeb fans included George Michael, 43, and Bob Geldof, 55. Now it's more likely that you'll see a sexy Sugababe or mouthy model sporting the look.

TEE FOR ONE: Make Love Not War T-shirt, £14, Topshop (0845 121 4519)

SMASH HIT: Sugababe Amelle

■ On the High Street, all the big hitters have their own take on the trend, but across the board, lettering is large and loud, proclaiming anything from messages of Love, Life and Live at New Look to Save the Rave at Topshop.
Coming in nice and cheap, slogan tees won't set you back more than £20.
But if it's a Katharine Hamnett re-issue you're after then expect to pay £45. And that's if you can find one.
To say they've been a big hit is an understatement and many stores are sold out.

IN THE PINK: Love, Life & Live T-shirt, £14, New Look (0500 454 094)

CUTIE PIE: Happy Cool Cute T-shirt, £6, Matalan (0845 330 3330); trousers, £25, Therapy at House of Fraser (0870 160 7270)

EXTRAORDINARY: Always Unique Never Ordinary T-shirt, £16.99, River Island (020 8991 4759)
